When the case first came up the Hon'ble the Chief Justice and the other learned Judges of the High Court expressed the view that there was no sufficient work to warrant the appointment of a second Urdu Munshi. Observed that there was prima facie work and wanted further particulars from the facts now furnished by the Registrar. The High Court has been shown for the temporary continuance of the additional Munshi.

examination - When boys take Persian & Urdu as two languages for the Intermediate Exam^n, they have only to study English as the other subject, & 15 hours a week for two languages cannot be said to be excessive

They have to study another subject also Ancient & modern History & Geography also

Even if a class is only 2 or 3 strong it not clear how classes of different grades can be lumped together for teaching, when perhaps different text books have to be got through - Perhaps some of the Composition classes may be taken together, ~~but~~ & perhaps this is being done, but even this depends on ~~the~~ all the classes having vernacular lessons at the same time -

(18) I regret I am unable to understand the second paragraph of the Pt Secy's note - If one man has to take 5 classes each day he can only give one hour to each class & therefore each class can only get 5 ~~hours~~ lessons in that subject during the week - As already stated when Persian & Hindustani are taken ~~are~~ as the optionals for the Intermediate course, ~~the~~ they would require much more than 6 hours study a week -

19. The I G's recommendation to continue the appointment of the temporary Munshi for another year may be sanctioned. It would be too heavy a responsibility on the Financial Department to throw on it the burden of framing correct time tables for class work in Schools & Colleges. The number of honours given at present to each of the Hindustani's Munshis is quite high enough and one man cannot possibly do all the work.

Thanks for the correction but it does not much affect the argument

Ref

Ref. I am not quite sure if the statement at A in Edn Secy's note is quite correct From Madras University Calendar Vol I (1914 page 128 it would appear that besides English & two languages either Ancient History, Modern History or Logic has to be taken. In that case perhaps it would be admitted that 15 hours work on languages alone is too much However as kindly observed by 1st Cl, the responsibility in such matters does not lie on the Fl Deptt but on the Administrative Deptt. The Fnl Deptt can only elicit & represent facts As two men are considered absolutely necessary the Dy's personal may be sanctioned The extra expenditure may be met as a special case from the lumpsum provn under Colleges in the current years budget
